

“Animals are individuals. Animals have personalities. Animals have the right to live free of human imposed suffering. Seeing animals for who they are and not as commodities and objects is critical to creating a compassionate, non-violent world. These simple truths come shining through in Patty Leon and Rich Winograd’s novel True Justice 4 All. I hope it will be widely read, especially by young adults, as they seek to change the trajectory of a violent and cruel society that exploits, abuses and kills innocent animals.”

Hope Bohanec, Executive Director,
Compassionate Living

True Justice 4 All

a novel...based on reality...unfortunately.

Patty Leon & Rich Winograd

Human superiority and dominance, the basis of speciesism, is backfiring on humanity. The lack of moral consideration towards non-human animals by exploiting, abusing and unnecessarily killing them, primarily for food and entertainment, is linked to humanity’s own suffering.

From chronic diseases and pandemics to human rights abuses, systematic racism, violence and wars to world hunger to environmental degradation and climate change, it’s ultimately the cognitive dissonance of humanity in relation to animals that is to blame. Only when actions are aligned with values will humanity have a chance.

As the Greek Philosopher Pythagoras said in the 6th Century, “For as long as man continues to be the ruthless destroyer of lower living beings, he will never know health or peace. For as long as men massacre animals, they will kill each other.”

Growing up at her Grandma Jan’s animal sanctuary in Western New York, Eliza is privileged from early childhood to have a unique relationship with animals. Learning from her grandmother, an animal rights and social justice activist, Eliza develops keen insight into the lives of animals rescued from animal agriculture and the destructive realities of the food production system on animals, humans and the planet. Now working at the sanctuary as a young adult, Eliza and her colleagues engage in their own outreach and activism to bring about awareness and change.

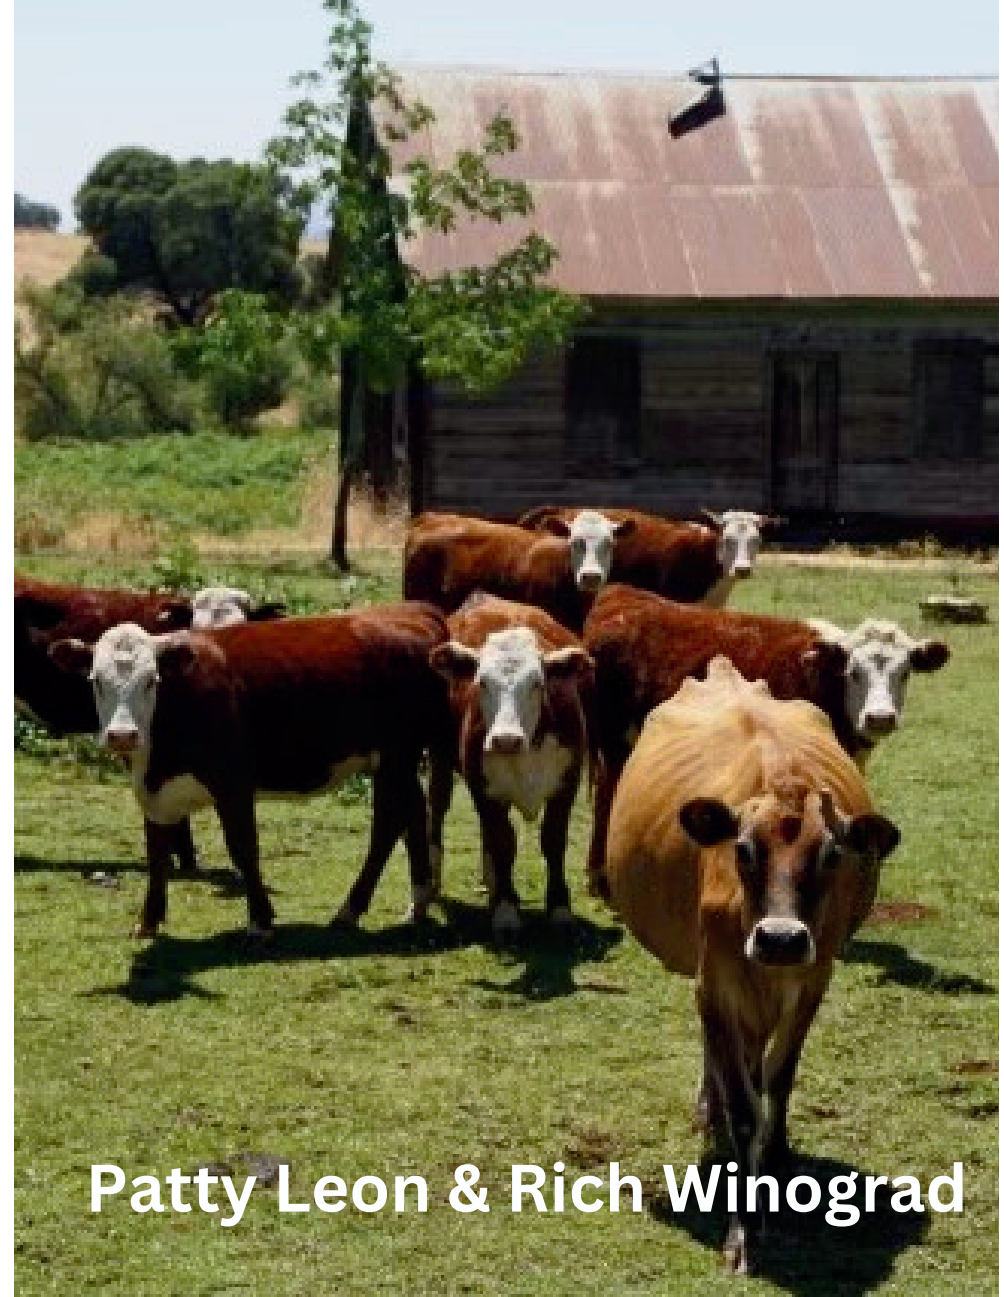

True Justice 4 All is an uplifting novel that shares the joys of loving innocent animals with the challenges of fighting for their freedom amidst the atrocities of a food system that cares neither for their innocence nor for their freedom.

Copyright © 2024 Patty Leon & Rich Winograd
ISBN # 979-8-218-49542-8
Cover design by Rich Winograd
Front and back cover photos by Patty Leon
USA $11

True Justice 4 All Patty Leon & Rich Winograd

True Justice 4 All

a novel...based on reality...unfortunately.

Patty Leon & Rich Winograd